Carina Stöttner

As a child, Carina Stöttner had two big dreams: to become an astronaut or an author. Even then, she was fascinated by the idea of seeing the world from different perspectives: whether as an astronaut, to recognize patterns and dynamics from above, or as an author, to describe the world in all its facets and nuances. So it’s no surprise that at the age of 27, she founded a think tank that develops future scenarios for executives. Before that, she studied communication sciences and sociology and chose unusual perspectives even during her studies: three years before the launch of ChatGPT,…
