

Alexander Krichel

Alexander Krichel is one of the most remarkable pianists of his generation. His musical career began at the age of six with his first piano lessons. At the age of just 15, he was accepted as a junior student at the Hamburg University of Music and Drama, proving his extraordinary talent early on. The Russian piano school was a major influence on his artistic development. As the last student of the renowned Vladimir Krainev in Hanover and later under the guidance of Dmitri Alexeev at the Royal College of Music in London, where he graduated with the highest distinction, he...
