

Bianca-Maria Klein

Bianca-Maria Klein loves people and successfully supports companies and organisations with lectures and workshops on expectation management, leadership, communication and cross-team collaboration. She looks back on a successful 20-year international career at corporations such as Boston Scientific, where she worked as a manager in marketing, sales and research, among other areas. Bianca-Maria Klein: 'I would like to see more genuine, courageous leaders and true role models who lead productive, responsible teams!' After gaining professional experience in positions of responsibility in the international healthcare industry, she now works as a speaker, coach, workshop leader and trainer. Bianca-Maria Klein supports companies and...
