

Dr. Thomas Ramge

Dr. Thomas Ramge thinks and writes at the crossroads of technology, economy, and society. His keynotes on transformation by tech are fact-based and entertaining, grounded in science and eye-opening. Thomas has published more than 15 non-fiction books, including 'Dimming the sun: How geoengineering can save humanity from climate catastrophe', 'Who's afraid of AI?', 'Augmented Intelligence', 'Reinventing Capitalism in the Age of Big Data and Access Rules' (both co-authored with Prof. Dr. Viktor Mayer-Schönberger) and 'The Global Economy as You've Never Seen it'. His essays and long-reads are being published in the German business magazine brand eins, The Economist, Harvard Business...
