

Michael Bröcker

Michael Bröcker is regarded as one of Germany's most prominent political journalists. Since January 2024 he has been serving as Editor-in-Chief of Table.Media, an information provider whose Professional Briefings are aimed at decision-makers in politics, business, academia and civil society. Together with Helene Bubrowski, he also co-hosts the daily podcast Table Today. Michael Bröcker began his journalistic career after studying economics and political science at the University of Cologne – complemented by academic stays in the United States – with a traineeship at the Rheinische Post. He first worked as a business reporter, later moving to Berlin as correspondent for...

Topics

Globalization, Politics, Policies & Economy

Languages

English, German

