

Nicole Brandes

Nicole Brandes, one of the world's leading experts on leadership, the future of work and human development in an increasingly fast-paced and technology-driven world. Her talks focus on future leadership skills and human development in a rapidly changing, technology-driven world. Whilst we continue to push the boundaries of high-tech, the real challenge lies in how we adapt to remain human despite digitalisation and artificial intelligence, and how we navigate this complexity. At the intersection of technology and humanity, Nicole Brandes shifts the focus to the human element as the defining factor of the future. She helps international companies and executives...
