Sacha Johann

Sacha Johann accompanies development and change processes of individuals, teams and organizations. He started his career in the financial industry and worked in the areas of relationship management, product management and most recently as head of marketing in private banking before taking the first step towards self-employment as an entrepreneur in 2002. He is co-founder and partner of Premotion, a communications consulting agency. Sacha Johann focuses on the question of meaning at the center of his workshops and lectures. Because: Would you do something if it wasn't meaningful? Since 2015, he has also accompanied personalities and teams in their individual further...
